Where people and the new meet

Where people and the new meet

Re-brand for Cable Factory, the biggest cultural centre in Finland:

56 000 m2 and million visits per year. Over 300 tenants. From museums to galleries, from artists to musicians, from dance to martial arts and beyond.

A treasure trove of arts and culture, all about togetherness and new, unexpected encounters. Epitomised by positive collisions of people, ideas and activities. It's where a bassist dances aikido. It's where jazz juggles inspiration. Cable Factory tying together the world. Different cultures. Art forms. Everything.

Work inspired by the iconic mural "Let Me Be Your Mental Dentist", delighting the visitors of the centre since '94 – created by one of the forerunners of modern street art and "the original Berlin Wall artist", Thierry Noir.

Designing a university for the youth and children

Designing a university for the youth and children

Aalto University Junior, an entity of Aalto University, encourages children and the youth to dive into science, arts, technology, and economics by organizing free time events.

BOND designed a brand identity, which is recognizably part of the Aalto University but still stands out from within the main brand as a playful bright spot. It appeals to the youngest of the family, yet also speaks to the adults. The end result, consisting everything from brand strategy to web design, is a combination of truth or dare, science, and childlike curiosity.

Quirky storytelling as the brand identity

Quirky storytelling as the brand identity

North Star Film Alliance (NSFA) is a joint venture between Estonia, Latvia & Finland servicing global film and TV productions.

Taking quirky cues from TV production & movies we developed an identity which reflects the core proposition of the company — It's an enabler, not the star, but still stands out, shining brightly. Set for whatever vision. The concept not only communicating this – literally – but helping to connect on a personal level. Within an industry, where personal connections mean the world.

Lana Del Rey

Lana Del Rey is one of the most fascinating artists of the 2010s. Her dark and melancholy pop is heavily influenced by the aesthetic tropes of generation Tumblr and is as influenced by the Hollywood glamour of the 1950s as it is by the pastiche, vengeful thoughts and an attempt at a heartache too intoxicated Lana Del Rey's fifth album "Lust for Life" released in July. Just before her performance of Flow Festival.

PRELUD - LAPIN KULTA RED AREA

Aphex Twin (UK)

The electronic trailblazer who put Cornwall on the musical map of the world keeps getting stranger and more unpredictable with age. He is easily the most inventive and unpredictable producer of our age, managing to bring together influences ranging from Jherri's techno to modern classical. Richard D. James' influence can be heard in classic works by everyone from Zort Funk to Rashad. Aphex Twin will play a mere couple of shows in 2017 and flow is probably the only chance to see his visually eye-copping performance in the Nordics.
